Hardware Assurance

Project Description

The group focuses on research, design and implementation of advanced algorithms and tools for electronic circuit design automation commonly used for the development of digital integrated circuits and System-on-chip (SoC). Advanced algorithms and tools for automatic HDL generation, High-Level synthesis, logic synthesis, floorplanning, optimization and formal verification have significant impact on reducing the complexity and design time of modern digital circuit/system design, implementation and verification.